MINER WELCOMES TSA PRE-CHECK PROGRAM TO SYRACUSE AIRPORT

SYRACUSE, N.Y. – Mayor Stephanie A. Miner today learned Syracuse Hancock International Airport was selected by the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) to participate in the TSA Pre-Check program.

“TSA Pre-Check is a major convenience for Central New York travelers coming in and out of the Syracuse airport,” said Mayor Stephanie A. Miner. “This helps us stay competitive and work with business travelers across the nation. This is just another ‘check’ on the list of great accomplishments we have achieved for our airport, including the opening of a $60 million renovation and the recent announcement of Allegiant Air’s new service.

TSA Pre-Check is an expedited screening program which allows selected travelers to avoid some hassles of airport. By pre-registering through the TSA, passengers will be allowed to keep wearing shoes and belts and allow some liquids to be kept in their suitcase during screening.
