SYRACUSE, N.Y. – Mayor Stephanie A. Miner announced today the City of Syracuse is launching a new webpage devoted to bike infrastructure and resources throughout the community. She made the announcement during the inaugural bike to work day celebration held at the City Hall Commons Atrium.

“Syracuse has great resources for bikers in our community and has a strong commitment to being a more digitally accessible City,” said Syracuse Mayor Stephanie A. Miner. “By launching this new webpage, we will better connect the growing bike community we have in the City of Syracuse to the great assets we have to offer.”

The webpage, which can be found at www.syr.gov.net/biking, offers users information about the City of Syracuse Bike Plan, which was passed as part of the Syracuse Comprehensive Plan: 2040. Additionally, a section will promote local bike events and another will discuss safety as well as the health and environmental benefits of biking.
